Miracle Testimonies

Celebrating Life!

(Testimony as told from Debbie Hamblin)

At one of your services, I stood in prayer for my friend, Frances, who was going to New York to have an abortion. I explained to Bro. Bill what was going on, and He told me, "God says, 'You just saved the baby's life.'"

A few weeks later, I found out that Frances did not have the abortion, and she went through so much grief trying to have the abortion that she just gave up. Praise the Lord! When I spoke to her about what God had told me through Bro. Bill, she just shrugged it off.

She had the baby, Ciara, on April 1, 2008. I recently spoke with her, and she is so happy she did not abort her daughter's life. Also, the funny thing is, I stood in prayer for her, and my birthday is April 1, too. Ciara was my birthday present, and I truly believe God saved Ciara's life for a reason. Thank you so much for obeying and doing the work of the Lord.

Celebrating Life, what a joy to think that little Ciara was awarded life instead of death!

Perhaps we really don't know the power of prayer and what God can do when we believe. Who knows, besides God, what her life will mean, and what she will accomplish on the earth!

*I praise you because I am fearfully and wonderfully made; your works are wonderful, I know that full well.
My frame was not hidden from you*

when I was made in the secret place, when I was woven together in the depths of the earth. Your eyes saw my unformed body; all the days ordained for me were written in your book before one of them came to be (Psalm 139:14-16 NIV).

Ciara has become a beautiful monument of God's unfailing love!

Vicki Campbell, Healing Through Jesus

Vicki believes in healing through Jesus! Isaiah 53:5 declares:

*But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him;
and with his stripes we are healed.*

If that's what the Bible says, then that's what it means. We have chosen to believe the Word of God above every other word. There is really only one truth, and we find it in God's holy Word.

Vicki is doing very well. She has recovered from the near invalid condition she was in just a few months ago in December 2010. I had to do everything for her, and when you love someone, you just do what needs to be done. In the mornings, she would need to be showered and dressed, transporting her from room to room, and getting her food together.

Going somewhere was a big challenge; today she just walks out and gets in the car. What a blessing to see the greatness of God changing her day by day.

The last doctor's report, the first week of May, was another good report. The tumors were smaller, and the doctor said the disease is being controlled. Vicki is feeling well and doing several things she did before all this began.

She has begun to travel with me again down south to some of the churches where we preach when she is able. The New Vision Church in Ravenna, Kentucky was thrilled when she came walking in during a service in April. They had been praying constantly for her. Pastor Buford Powell, along with his staff and congregation, made it a point to hold Friday meetings just praying for Vicki's recovery. When she came to the service, a spontaneous applause went up to give God great glory.

Vicki is continuing to wear scriptures and declarations on her body at all times, along with sleeping with scriptures under her sheet. She continues to listen to healing scriptures, when she goes to bed, from the Bible on CD daily. Her faith is elevated like never before. Vicki also has preached two women's conferences over the last few months.

I am asking you to continue to pray for total recovery! The answer to healing and deliverance is in Jesus only! Thanks for all who carry this burden daily!

Making a Difference

gain perspective about my goal.

One day an old man rose before sunrise to take his daily walk on the beach. In the distance, he saw a youth, apparently dancing, bending over, reaching, and flailing his arms about. However, as he drew closer, he saw that the youth was sifting through the debris left by the night's tide, and every now and then pick up a starfish and heave it back into the ocean. Approaching the youth, he asked what he was doing. The young man explained how the tide had washed them onto the beach, that they couldn't return to the ocean by themselves, and that they would die once the sun came up unless he threw them back in.

Looking up and down the vast beach, the old man saw that the starfish littering the sand were too numerous to count and spoke, "There are more starfish on this beach than you could ever save before the sun comes up. Surely, you can't expect to make a difference."

The young lad bent down, picked up another starfish, and threw it as far as he could into the ocean. Turning to the old man, he briefly paused to say, "I made a difference to that one."

Tears flooded my eyes as the Holy Spirit made this story real to me. It's not about my name going down in the history books for accomplishing some great feat such as discovering the fountain of youth, being the first person to walk on Mars, or even finding a cure for world hunger.

Rather, it's about helping one person at a time. It's about singing one song at a time or writing one story at a time. It's about giving one gift at a time or giving one offering at a time. It's about speaking one word of encouragement at a time or expressing our gratitude to one person at a time. It's about listening to one person at a time and giving Godly instruction to one person at a time. It's about being a Good Samaritan one day at a time and letting the love of God flow through us one day at a time.. It's about listening to the Holy Spirit and being obedient to His voice one day at a time. It's a lifestyle, giving of ourselves one day at a time, every day.

Who knows? Maybe you'll be the one person that will make a difference in someone else, which would allow them to win thousands of souls for Christ; or become the next President of the United States; or become a missionary in a foreign country; or become a wealthy business person who can financially support the works of God. Maybe no one will ever know just how big of an impact you've actually made in this world by making a difference in other people's lives day after day, but God knows!

I don't know its author, but this poem has been a great inspiration to me, and hopefully, will be for you, too.

I am only one, but I am one

I cannot do everything

But I can do something

And what I can do, I ought to do

And what I ought to do

By the grace of God, I will do.

Only one life, twill soon be past Only what's done for Christ will last.

Standing in front of the dresser mirror as a young teenage girl, I was thinking about the cycle of life, assessing how babies are born to only grow old and die, and how this cycle seems to eternally repeat itself. It was depressing to think about the millions lying in graveyards, as well as the numerous dead bodies that never entered a traditional grave. I realized that as the years go by, most of these people are forgotten. What a dismal thought—to think that I could live to a ripe old age and die. Then, after a 100 years, more or less, that no one may even care that I ever lived.

It was then that I vowed to make my life count for something. I wanted to make a difference in this world. My goal was that someday, should I not live long enough to go in the rapture, that people could honestly say (and engrave on my tombstone), "She made a difference." Even if people never remembered my name, I prayed that my accomplishments would be an eternal legacy for future generations.

Now, I know I'm not even close to reaching that goal yet, but it is still my heart's greatest desire. Sometimes, I don't see how this could ever be possible, and discouragement and circumstances often set me back. Somehow, though, I always come back to this dream, and once again, I become encouraged that I am able to truly make a difference. Recently, I received an e-mail that contained a story about a starfish that helped me
